possible success and will try to keep you from achieving. Exceptional people, unfortunately, are seldom appreciated and never widely loved.

Your gifts are many and your path is plain: You must above all carry the academic torch and be better tomorrow than today. Life is an eternal interrogative and you must for yourself convert as much of it to declaration as is possible for you to do.

In Hamlet, Polonius says to Laertes, "This above all — to thine ownself be true and it must follow as the night the day; thou canst not then be false to any man." The words are trite but the philosophy truth. Follow it.

You have been a good friend and a great challenge. Thank you for your contribution to my growth.

March 7, 1963

Dear Carolyn,

It would be superfluous to go through a systematic cataloguing of events and honors we have shared in together. There have been many and I am certain that few of them would be forgotten anyway. I choose instead in talk of you personally and your responsibility.

It is a new person I'm writing to; new from the little girl I met. She has gained for herself: poise, dignity, self-confidence and maturity. She has become a young lady and has taken her place among the young adults. Now she must justify her past successes. She must continue to grow.

In the world of adults there is a barrier called competition. This barrier lies between the plain of mediocrity and the mountain of success. Many choose never to climb this barrier because it requires stepping forward in many instances where failure seems eminent and failure to many is unbearable. Failure in itself is no disgrace. It only allows the assailant to find one more path which will not lead over the barrier and thus brings the journeyer closer to getting through. The barrier itself is designed to hurt. It is beset by people who jeer and call names. The people in this barrier are afraid of your

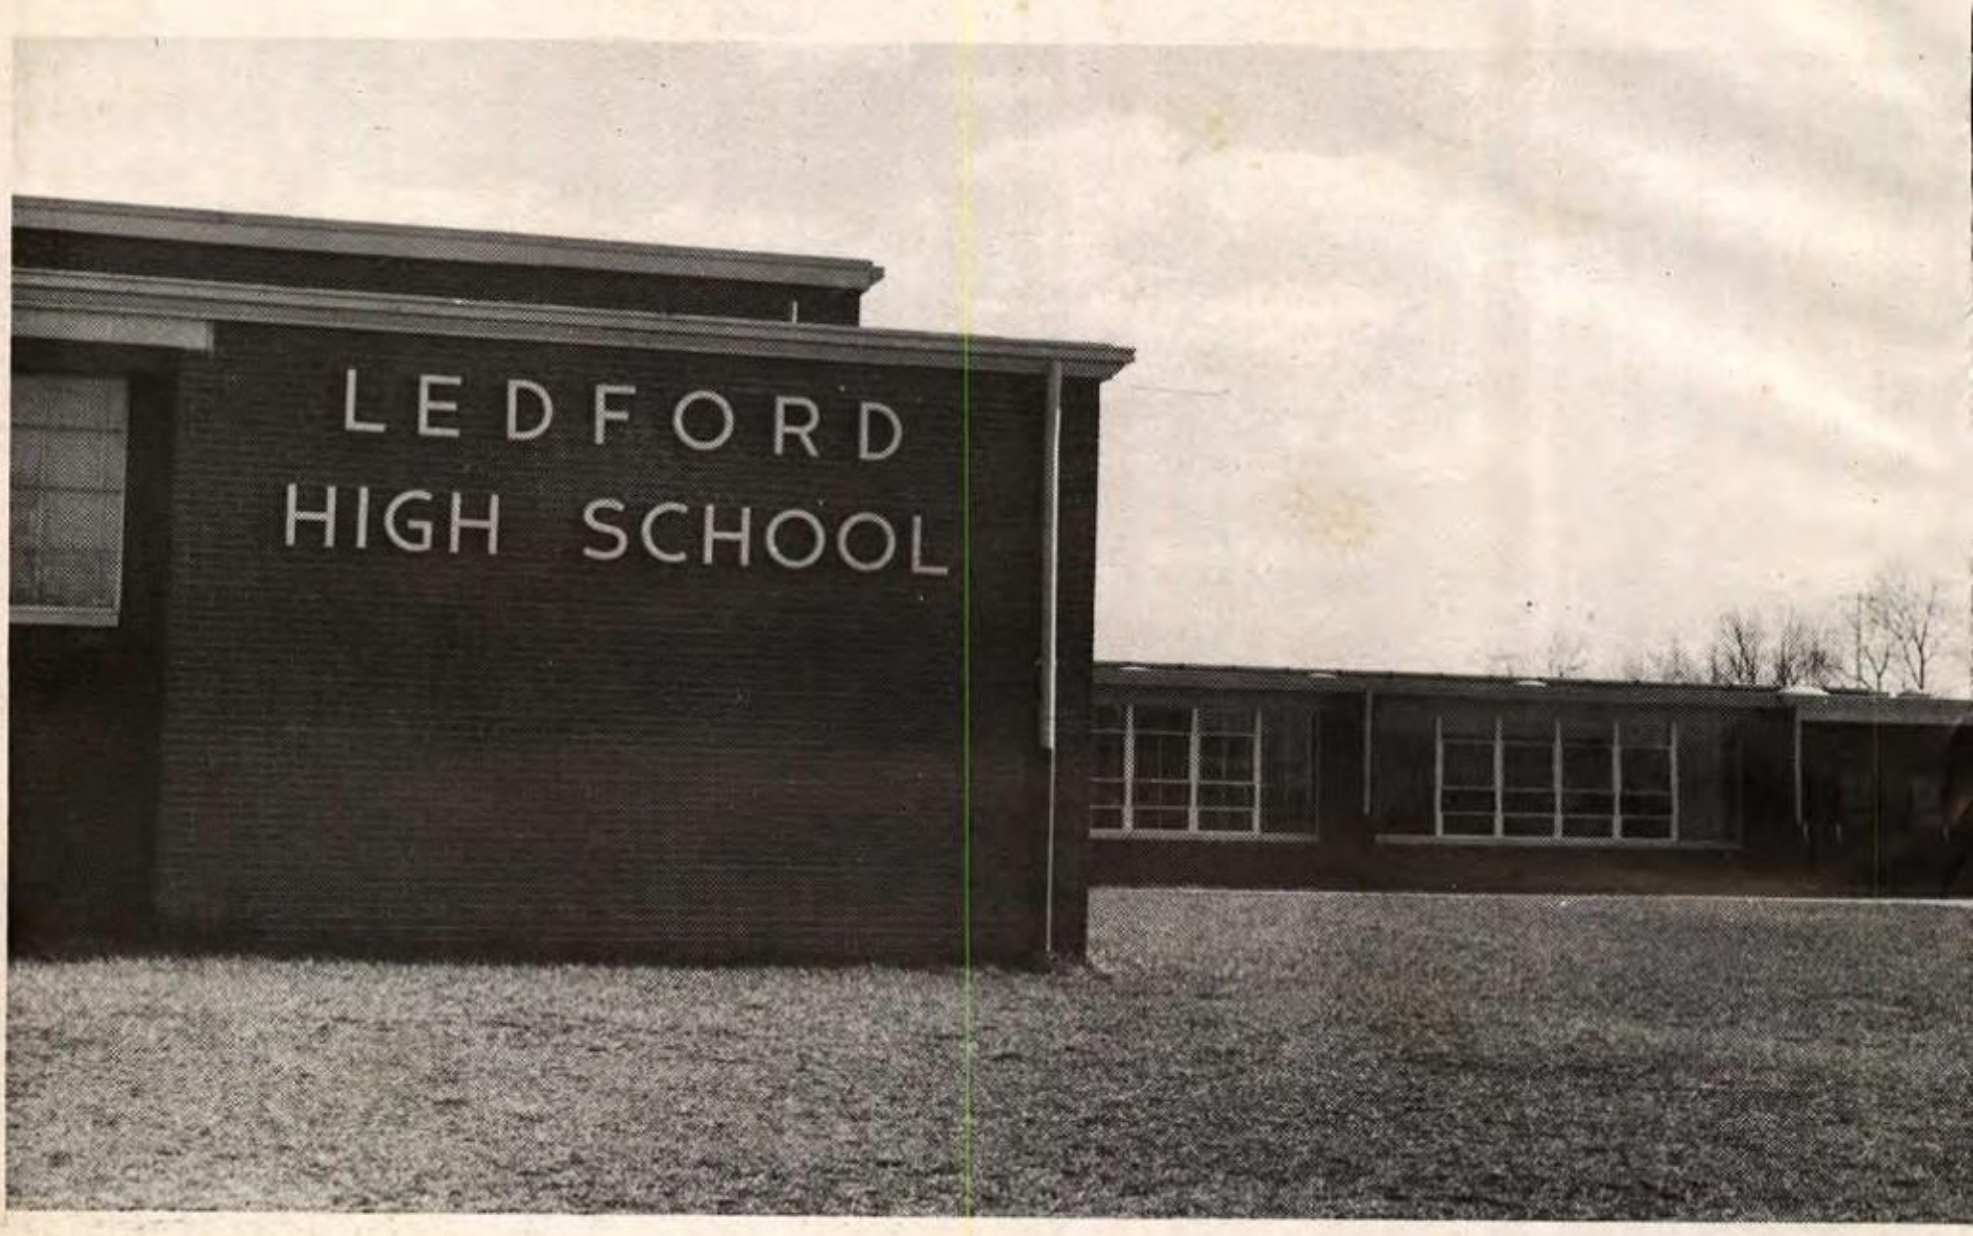
Hail, Alma Mater, Hail, Hail to thee . . .



In this atmosphere stands Ledford, the school we hold dear.

"Everybody study! This is supposed to be an unposed shot."

Laughter, impatience, famish.

. . . Thy name we'll always hold in highest ecstasy . . .

"Let's hurry! That four-minute bell gets shorter each day."

Books stack up when exam time arrives.

Foreword

That this 1963 yearbook may bring to mind vividly thoughts of individuals whom you want to remember, and school activities in which you have participated, is our sincere wish. It is a memory book of a school year, now an actual fact as we go from class to class; soon it will be a v a g u e d r e a m. May this book be tangible enough to connect your fancies with this year's facts.

The morning begins as the flag is raised.

"Ledford High: good, better, or maybe BEST."

Glory and honor to thee we bring . . .

School spirit is aroused at pep rallies.

"We're from Ledford and couldn't be prouder."

. . . Praise be to Ledford High - To thee we proudly sing . . .

Poem

Four years ago, to Ledford we came,
For years in our dreams it had just been a name.
But now it is a part of us,
Now to us, its honor it entrusts.

The years have gone swiftly by,
And now it is time to say good-by;
Soon Commencement Day will be here,
The end of four near-perfect years.

With us we take cherished memories,
To be remembered long through the years.
So, we face the future, with our heads held high
and a smile upon our face;
New duties will come to us; in this world we shall find our place.

To you, dear Ledford, we'll always be true,
Our thoughts will always be with you,
You helped to shape us in our youth,
With honor, gratitude, and truth.

Although from our friends we may stray,
We all plan to meet here again some day.
And so, dear friend, until we return,
The love in our hearts for you will burn.

The Student Council was organized to give the students a voice in school government. Members direct traffic in the halls, sponsor programs and dances, and supervise school elections.

Many ideas brought together in one book.

Working, planning, hoping, dreaming

Since much of the success of the annual depends on literary talents, our staff members are chosen by the English teachers from the freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior classes.

Much work has gone into the making of this book, which we hope you, our fellow classmen, will find pleasing.

As it happens, portrayed in the Ledfordian

"One compliment was worth all the work."

The Ledfordian, the school newspaper, sponsored by the Beta Club, brings to each student and into our homes the news of activities and events at Ledford.

Through perseverance, the staff has been able to produce a paper of which we are proud.

And this is the way it was . . . 1963

Life is difficult to record. It has a known beginning and end—somewhere between there are the personalities, the wonderful secrets of human existence. In this middle land between light and darkness lie happiness and sorrow, hope and disappointment, the past and the future. Those who are able to record these evasive qualities are rare indeed. We hope that somewhere we have captured the spirit that will make a living diary of this small part of your existence.

Miss Carolyn Hauser,

As a fellow Debater, speaker, etc, I have a high regard for your ability and determination. I feel that you are very ambitious and are willing to work to make a fine reputation for yourself. I feel you should be commended. Just don't let our inefficient society catch you. Holden (Greg Myers)

Caroligne,

Words can't tell what a nice, witty, intelligent girl you are. In other words its good to have someone like you around. If everyone had the personality and reputation that you have this world would get along fine. If you keep up your step as you are now you will reach any goal you set out to accomplish. Maybe some of your good traits will rub off on some of the people here at Ledford. (Lets hope so). A girl of your character cannot be forgotten. Best of Wishes always and may God bless. Doug Spruill

Carolyn - sometimes you're a wonderful girl and sometimes you're a mess. The first time I saw you with all teeth and cheeks I knew I wouldn't date you. If you had talked a little sooner - & you're the biggest mess in any one girl I've ever met, along with the alarm clock I've got to get you keeping me on line and your "dislikes" when we're talking on hour or so on the telephone, and I'm driving, when we're in church. You've got more one girl I Know I do wish you for every one of them. I'm never acted as crazy as I would like you for any other girl. Well I guess I've got an all-American girl to go along with all-American city.

Roger

Carolyn,

Carolyn,

How many years ago has it been, 10, or maybe not that long, yet I'll always remember you as a "little" girl with "big" ideas! Remember last year & all the goofy things we did together? So ends another year & another one of your goofy years, too! Stay as you are now, mean & as Roger says, a mess, & I'm sure you will end up in jail or maybe Dix Hill! Ha Be good & may you richly be rewarded.

Love ya,
Carroll

Carolyn,
to you I owe a lot
of thanks and consideration,
for helping me in Public Speaking and Debate. I'll always remember you and your "big trap". I admire you for everything you do, "just about". you will make one of the finest people in the United States if you keep up your good work. I hope you do and I think you will. I'll always remember the good times
we had together such as Wake Forest, pajama party, and even trips with Mr. Adkins. Carolyn I hope we continue to be the best of friends forever.
may God Bless you and Good luck.
